Very good game. Short but with all achievements and upgrade it will take several hours of play. The story is sort of odd, but I really like this game (or visual novel) pros:the soundtrack is great interesting story

has a mysterious and somewhat dystopian 'real' feel to it; a man trapped in hell dealing with impossible challenges and living conditions.

cons:can be unexplained at times poor translation here and there summary: overall I think that this is great and i would recommend buying it, if anything on sale though.. It's like a modern 3D Atari Space shooter with blinging lights that go with your custom music. Get the highest score possible and post it on Youtube for bragging rights if you want. In the end, it's all about challenging your high score and doing better than what you did in the past.. It seems like an unfinished Game Maker's game. Acceptable graphics, but poor animations (impoverished by low FPS), specially the transitions between screens. Nothing innovative or interesting, after 15 minutes playing it's boring by mechanics seems in another classic and indie games, but precariously implemented.

The control and shooting is a little weird. There isn't AI on the characters, the stealth doesn't work because the shooters aren't a menace and you can possess the guards from a little far and under the corner where they are, without being seen.

If you are searching puzzle platform games, better options are Super Meat Boy, The Lost Vikings or Stealth Bastard Deluxe.

Sorry, but it was tedious for me.. Interesting multiplayer game. We control a viking character and our task consists in taking the points and reach the enemy base. We can choose from several classes and the whole is complemented by numerous maps and a variety of flying ships..

It is not enough servers, but does not have a problem finding a game.

The graphics are a little bad, but totally do not mind.

I recommend.. I feel reborn. Bought this hoping for the song used during the credits, but it is not included unfortunately.. i like the game wondering when the other nights after night 2 will be added. I like it. Though as others have said the game is kind of clunky.

Also I think it would be cool if the game creators did something like Game Dev did and allow mods to the game.

Still pretty cool game. Just need to figure out how to consistently make money.

You can shoot nazi's, what else do you want.. Very impressive for early access! Solid and smooth controls, vibrant graphics, awesome sound and voiceover. And a huge thumb sup to the killer soundtrack. Phenomenal Game. To start off I would like to mention I've spent years downhill mountain biking to anybody else in the same shoes wondering about this game.

Gameplay: Instantly I felt full control over the bike, inertia and looseness. You feel a bit sloppy at first, but you'll pick it up, just like riding a bike. The game features a rogue-like progression through a "season". You only get so much health before your season ends and you start over. If you complete the boss "jump" level of its respective area you move on to the next environment(level). You need to do this three times total to unlock the next environment permanently creating a really nice paced progression. There is an open area for stunts featured as a lobby in between gameplay modes. 5V5

Level Design: Procedural level keep things fresh and don't allow for speedrunning in multiplayer also keeping things fair. Starting with the first area things are fairly mellow, but a great introduction into controlling your bike both downhill scrubbing speed off carefully with burms or getting the perfect launches into the air and landing like a boss. As you make it to the second area forward the difficulty curve steepens (pun intended). Yet feels like a fully welcomed challenge as you are now learning how to slow your bike down from intense inclines to loose corners making you powerslide to the next setup. 5V5

Diversity: Anything from bike, t-shirts or glove skins to a chicken helmet. You can customise pretty much anything, adding a lot of replay-ability itself. As you move through your season you get to choose from a selection of different tracks depending on your taste in downhill, stunts or a mellow burmed race. You can even end up being lucky enough to attempt a sponsor race giving you off-road, downhill or stunt specialisations. 5V5

Soundtrack: Absolutely amazing drum and bass soundtrack that fits the game's fast paced game play. It also becomes a progression on it's own as the soundtrack will progress to a new set list every time you make it to a new environment. Keeping things fresh yet familiar to each respective environment. 5V5

Graphics: Nothing groundbreaking, but it looks great even at 4K resolution and the quality is to a standard that it doesn't break immersion whatsoever. Experienced zero frame-drops period. Which is great right out of the box. 3.5V5. No Man's Sky 2.0

Makes a game that a lot of people want.
Makes a pre-release version of the game
Puts it up on Early Access to sell players that the game will recieve updates Cashes it in
However 'No Man's Sky recieved multiple updates' after launch,
I haven't noticed a single one...

Don't buy this game, by all means
Just don't buy this game.

You are giving someone money to get an early access game that will never change.. The game looks and plays like a Facebook game, it's even impossible to lose. I kept waiting for the tutorial to be over but it turned out to be one big tutorial you can't lose.

It probably takes about 3 hours to complete (I was regularly away from my PC while it was still running thus 6 hours displayed).

It has achievements you unlock through the menu, yet they don't have them through Steam nobody can see I 100% completed this "game".

I wouldn't recommend this game at any price, I only finished it because I knew I was halfway through by the time I realised the tutorial was the entire game. It didn't help that the last 20 minutes was just grinding out points to buy temples.

tldr; don't buy this, if it's already too late when you see this, click the hand of God quickly. You can get multiple returns that register as one click.. Really good and really smooth twin stick shooter. I love the graphics and I really like how things explode into bits when killed or destroyed. The accessories and weapons are all pretty fine and all the weapons are relatively usable as well, which is rare for today's games.

The developer constantly replies to threads and is always listening to the feedback given in the forums, which is just astoundingly great.

I haven't come across any bugs in this game yet and anything that I think needs to be changed the developer has addressed already and stated he will be doing something about it in his next update. I'd really recommend this game if you even mildly enjoy twin sticks, zombies, or games with online multiplayer and the option for single player as well.

8.5/10. Now i'm gonna go play some more. Airport looks beautiful just like in real life. However I don't recommend the investment if you don't have a good computer as your frames will be shredded. Refunding as the looks and price aren't worth the trade off in performance. If you can handle a low frame approach and take off, or have a top tier graphics card, then it could be worth a look. I run a Ryzen 7 1700 and gtx1060 6gb.. how do u access dlc. So here's the verdict : I spent 2$ on this game and I enjoyed it. It was fun, despite some obvious flaws and hilarity.

What this game is not : Serious. A Heretic/Hexen clone.

What to do/expect : To die alot at the hands of laser-blaster wielding psychedelic Bugs Bunnies in a rainbow happy fantasy land. To have gigglefits when your character dies and lets out a horrid scream. To die alot from falling. The game is very forgiving in regards to player death, so its fairly comic and inconsequential.

Things I wish could be better? Some menus, control options. Deathmatch/CTF. Also, the rabbit lasers pretty much run train on you and could do for a mild nerf.

I love it. Thank you.
